Pathway Program Evaluation Fellow—Diversity, Inclusion, Community Engagement, and Equity (Yale School of Medicine)

Mentor: Linda Jackson, Senior Associate Director, Diversity, Inclusion, Community Engagement, and Equity (DICE)

Fellow Title: Pathway Program Evaluation Fellow—Diversity, Inclusion, Community Engagement, and Equity (DICE)

Organization Name: Diversity, Inclusion, Community Engagement, and Equity (DICE), Yale School of Medicine

Organization Website: <https://medicine.yale.edu/dice/>

Organization Description:

The DICE Office provides supports for current medical students and pre-med undergraduate students in the areas of recruitment, retention, and support. The Office hosts pathway programs for students interested in medical school and/or graduate school or a Yale New Haven Hospital residency program. Current medical students are supported through the eleven affinity groups funded through the office.

GPE Fellow Responsibilities:

The GPE Fellow will be responsible for surveying previous pathway program participants regarding the benefits of the program during and after the program. The fellow will write a detailed report regarding their findings.

Desired GPE Fellow Qualifications:

Qualifications for this position are the ability to use Qualtrics to update current surveys, send surveys to current and past program participants, data collections, organize data, and formulate a written report from the data collected.

GPE Fellow Learning Objectives:

Upon completion of the fellowship the fellow should be able to present their findings from the data collected to the full medical school DEI team. This can be done in an oral or poster presentation.

The fellowship can and will hopefully continue for a few semesters
