

IvyPlus Exchange Scholar Program Application

Updated August 2025

Purpose

The IvyPlus Exchange Scholar Program enables a graduate student enrolled in a doctoral program in one of the participating institutions to study at one of the other participating graduate schools for a limited period of time at no additional tuition cost, in order to take advantage of educational opportunities not available on the student's home campus.

Duration of a participating student's enrollment at a host school may be for one or more terms (which may be recorded in quarters or semesters, depending on the institution), with a maximum exchange enrollment of one year. (In the case of a student accompanying a dissertation adviser who has joined the host school, more than a year's enrollment as an Exchange Scholar may be permitted if all parties are in agreement.) Any extensions to an approved exchange enrollment require a separate application form.

The academic experience, including courses taken and/or research conducted with particular faculty at the host institution, is reported to the student's home institution to be recorded on the academic record maintained by the home institution. It may also be recorded by the host institution.

Participating students may be required to confirm the transfer of credit with their home institution.

Eligibility and Application Process

Terms and conditions for the IvyPlus Exchange Scholar Program are found at the end of this application. The graduate schools of the institutions listed at the end of the application are participants in the IvyPlus Exchange Scholar Program. If a student is currently enrolled in a doctoral program at one of these institutions and wishes to study for a term or academic year at another, the student should read the relevant terms and conditions and complete the application as instructed. All approvals from the home and host institutions must be obtained at least two months before the enrollment date at the host institution. Most participating institutions can enroll exchange students only at the start of a term. Please refer to a host institution's academic calendar for relevant dates.

Please be aware that a host institution may charge an application fee or fees for services that are not covered by tuition, such as health and hospitalization charges. It is a student's responsibility to meet such charges.

International students on a F-1 or J-1 visa may remain on the visa sponsorship of their home institutions and maintain their immigration status. They must contact their home institution's international student office before accepting any on-campus or off-campus employment.

Effective Dates

The IvyPlus Exchange Scholar Program was renewed in January 2024 for a five-year period. However, the participating institutions may modify the program at any time, and individual institutions may withdraw from the program at any time.

Please do not use the Mac built-in Preview application to fill out this form. Rather, download Adobe to complete the form.

Parts of the Application

Each part of the application must be completed.

- Parts A through C are completed by the student applying for the exchange.
- Part D is completed by the administrative contact at the home institution.
- Parts E and F are completed by the administrative contact at the host institution.

The roster of administrative contacts is found at the end of the application, along with terms and conditions.

Source	Type	Tuition	Living Stipend
(e.g., Home Inst, External)	(e.g. Fellowship, Research asst., Loans)	($ amount)	($ amount)

Ordinarily students will not receive any financial support from the host institution. Will any financial support come, or be paid through, the host institution, for example as an assistantship in research or teaching fellowship?
YES NO

If yes, and if you are an international student on a visa, you must contact the visa office at your home institution, as well as the visa office at the host institution, prior to your arrival.

Do you require support from the Accessibility or Disability Services Office at the host institution?
YES NO

Note: If yes, contact the relevant office at your home institution and ask that that office make contact with the relevant office at the host institution. The administrative contacts for the exchange at both the home and host institutions can help with referrals to the appropriate offices.

Sign the following statement:

I hereby petition to participate in the IvyPlus Exchange Scholar Program and to undertake the course of study outlined above. I agree to abide by the terms and conditions of this program as well as the regulations and procedures of both institutions. I understand that violation of any of the regulations can result in my suspension from the program. I authorize the transfer of record of courses and/or research conducted with a particular faculty member at the host institution to my home institution and understand that I may need to request this transfer separately.

Terms and Conditions

The following are to be regarded as minimal terms and conditions of the program. Individual institutions may choose to establish more rigorous criteria, e.g., for eligibility or duration of study. Definitions (e.g., of “term,” “academic year,” and “hospitalization coverage”) may also vary according to local policy and practice.

1. ELIGIBILITY – Normally students will be eligible to be Exchange Scholars only after they have completed one full academic year in residence in a PhD program at their home institution. Students must be in good standing at the home institution at time of application and for the duration of the exchange period.
2. DURATION – A minimum of one term of study and a maximum of one academic year will be permitted in the program. The operation of this program during the summer sessions will be at the discretion of the host and home institutions. Any extensions require separate approval.
3. REGISTRATION STATUS – Exchange Scholars will be registered by the home and host institutions in whatever enrollment category (“in absentia,” “in residence,” “special student,” “Exchange Scholar”) is appropriate at each place.
4. TUITION AND FINANCIAL AID – Tuition will be charged and collected by the student’s home institution. Stipend support, if any, is ordinarily paid only by the home institution.
5. HEALTH AND HOSPITALIZATION COVERAGE – The host institution will be responsible for assuring that hospitalization and health services are locally available. However, the host institution may either charge the student for such services or require that the student is covered by the student health plan of the home institution.
6. RESPONSIBILITIES AND PRIVILEGES – Relevant rules, policies, and procedures for the home institution and the host institution apply to Exchange Scholars. At the host institution, Exchange Scholars will be accorded many of the privileges of the host institution’s degree-seeking students. They will receive a student ID card that permits access to the host institution’s libraries, labs, health facilities, athletic facilities, etc. Where these services entail fees in addition to tuition, the host institution will charge Exchange Scholars the same fees it charges its own graduate students. Host institutions reserve the right to limit Exchange Scholars’ access to resources that are specifically dedicated to students who are pursuing a degree program or for which such students have priority.
7. INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS - International students are understood to be under the continuing sponsorship of their home institution. All US Immigration Services work for them must be done through the international student advisor at the home institution. International students on F-1 visas should note that they are not allowed to work at the host institution unless they obtain prior written approval from the Visa Office at the host institution.
8. RECORDS – Upon completion of an Exchange Scholar’s enrollment at a host institution, an official transcript may be sent to the student’s home institution. Participating students and administrative contacts should confirm this process with the host institution administrative contact; at some institutions, students or administrative contacts may need to request the transcript themselves. The transcript will include the course record (title, number, instructor, credit or class hours and grade received), if any, and may include any research or independent study courses the student completed. The information will then be posted on the student’s academic record or made part of the record as appropriate to the home institution.
9. NOTIFICATIONS – The host institution may notify the home institution about the student’s program, experience, and conduct during the exchange period. The home institution will be responsible for notifying third parties of the Exchange Scholar’s status and activities.
