For the academic year 2019-2020, the tuition for most full-time study programs at the Yale Graduate School of Arts and Sciences is $43,300.

The following estimations for the cost of living in New Haven for the 2019-2020 academic year are made available as a general reference for graduate students. These figures are used by the Office of Financial Aid to calculate financial need as required by certain funding sources. The figures include room and board, transportation, personal expenses and academic expenses excluding tuition.

Scholarships/Fellowships

- Apply for scholarships or fellowships through your department

Master’s students may be eligible for a variety of scholarships and fellowships. These are granted by your degree department, rather than the Graduate School Financial Aid Office. We encourage you to reach out to your departmental registrar to inquire about any available options.

An additional resource available to students is the Yale Student Grant and Fellowship Program Database for further options based on specific criteria unique to your individual situation.

External Fellowships

All students are encouraged to compete for external fellowships. External awards, sponsored by both public and private agencies, confer distinction on a student who wins an award in a national competition.

- Notify the Graduate School of external awards
  a. Send a copy of your award letter to the Financial Aid Office at gradfinaid@yale.edu

Employment

Part-time employment at the University or elsewhere should not conflict with the obligations of the degree program or interfere with academic progress. Part-time employment beyond an average of ten hours per week requires permission of the Director of Graduate Studies in consultation with the appropriate associate dean. Part-time employment includes teaching outside of the Graduate School’s Teaching Fellow Program.

International students must consult the Office of International Students and Scholars (OISS) regarding their eligibility for employment while in the United States.

Student Account

Yale’s Office of Student Financial and Administrative Services (SFAS) is responsible for maintaining your Student Information Systems (SIS) Account. Charges, including but not limited to, tuition, health charges, applicable housing, & fines will be processed through your SIS Account.

1. Navigating your SIS Account
   a. The University Bursar will issue a monthly bill through your SIS Account. We suggest you review it regularly to ensure your account is accurate and up to date.

2. Sign up for the Yale Payment Plan (YPP)
   a. SFAS enables students and families to pay all or a portion of their term bill in monthly installments beginning in April or May preceding the academic year.
   b. There are no interest or finance charges, only a nominal yearly administrative fee.
   c. Apply through student financial services.
